Famous Face Race

Purpose & SOL

- Students will practice correctly identifying famous Americans by their name/face and by their contribution to society.
- Social Science K.1a, 1.11a, 2.11

Materials

- Hula hoops to hold pictures
- Cones
- Large space
- 6 sets of photographs of famous Americans (see attached), print on different colored cardstock

Introduction

Begin the lesson start with a game of seats up. All students will stand behind their desks. When a child answers a question correctly, the student gets to switch seats with another student. The teacher will review each picture, their name, and an important fact with the students to prepare them for the game.

Implementation

Relay

1) The teacher will divide students into groups no larger than 4.
2) Each group will have a specific cone color, as their starting point. Set items to be collected a few feet away. The students should stand in line behind the starting point.
3) The 1st round of activity will be played just having students take turns identifying Americans. Call out a person, have the first person in each line run, skip hop to their hula-hoop and choose a picture card and return.
4) Then, call out the next famous American and the second student in line will go.
5) Continue until all students have had a turn and all patriotic symbols have been identified.
6) If time allows, a second round can be played where students must choose the picture based off of the information about the person. For example, “This person was the 16th president and he wore a tall stove pipe hat. He is on the penny.”
7) Names/ information will be called one at a time and students will bring their answer back to their group.
8) Check answers with students by having them hold up their picture when they return to their line.

Cool Down

Deep breathing exercises and a game of pick a stretch will end the lesson.

Modifications

Instead of just practicing name/ picture identification describe the person and have the students choose the correct picture.
Have students relay to collect pictures and match the correct faces to the names.

Length
20-25 min.
